

Weekly Hay Market August 1, 2022

Overall the hay market did soften this week as the dairies remained a little hesitant to just buy hay and continued to only bid on Supreme and Premium grade tonnage. In the export market we did hear of some concerns that the market into China could be slowing. In most areas it looked as though we took $25 per ton out of the market this week. We saw clean and green hay bid between $275 and $300 and dairy quality $300 to $325.